Song 4 Open my eyes, O Lord

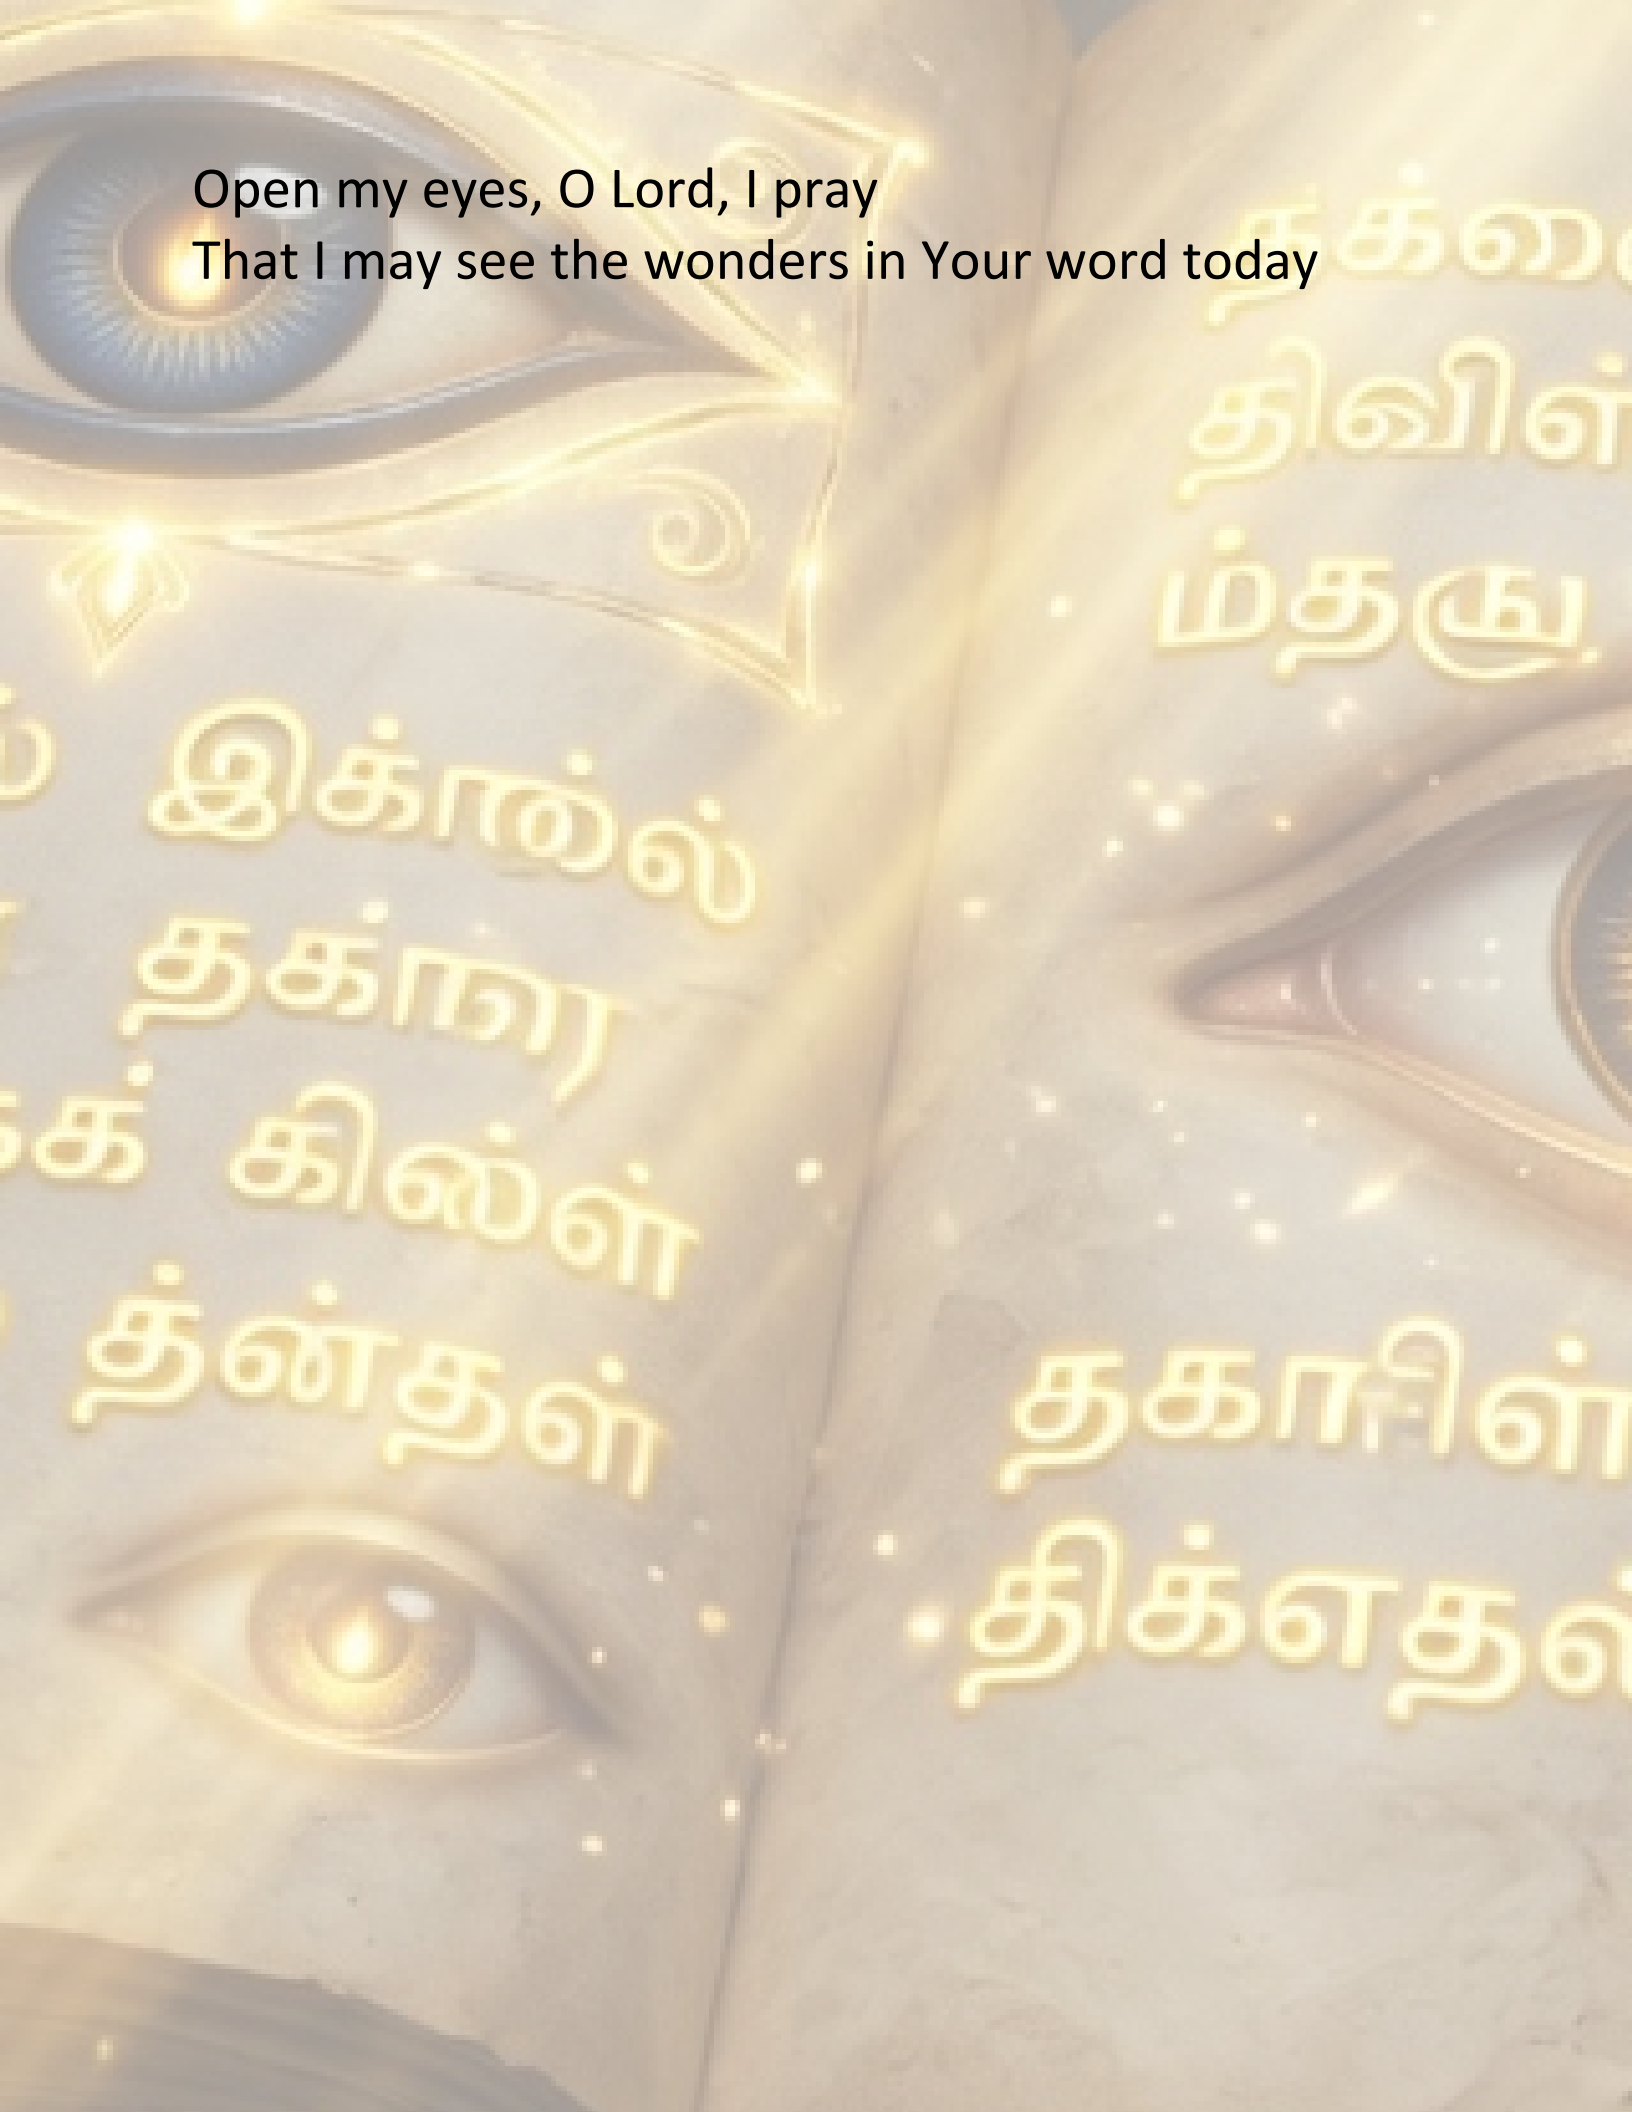
Psalm 119:18 – “Open my eyes, that I may see wondrous things in Your law.” A direct prayer for spiritual illumination. The psalmist, though surrounded by God’s Word, asks for divine help to truly perceive its depth, beauty, and treasures. Key theme: Without God’s light, the Bible remains closed to our hearts.

Open my eyes, O Lord, I pray
That I may see the wonders in Your word today
Be gracious to Your servant, Lord, and let me live
That I may keep Your word and to Your truth I cleave

I am a stranger on this earth
Hide not Your commands from me, show me their worth
Remove from me all scorn and shame
That I may hold Your testimonies without blame

Princes speak against me with contempt
Yet I meditate on Your laws with firm intent
My soul is weary with longing and desire
But I delight in Your righteous judgments, ever higher

Your testimonies are my joy and delight
They give me counsel and wisdom in the night



Open my eyes, O Lord, I pray
That I may see the wonders in Your word today
